

The Dirt Palace

14 Olneyville Square
Providence RI

>Envelope-to: mail@sparwasserhq.de
>X-Originating-IP: [128.2.52.214]
>X-Originating-Email: [missxander@hotmail.com]
>From: "ms XANDER" <missxander@hotmail.com>
>To: mail@sparwasserhq.de >Bcc:
>Subject: old habits die hard
>Date: Tue, 16 Sep 2003 14:37:36 -0400
>X-OriginalArrivalTime: 16 Sep 2003 18:37:37.0686 (UTC)
>FILETIME=[9A3D9B60:01C37C81]

>

>hi - a copy of the note about your video show was forwarded to me >by vanessa gilbert . it sounds like a great idea for a show! i am >part of a feminist collective arts space in providence, RI (usa) >called the dirt palace we're interested in sending you >something...is it too late?...also your e-mail said either pal and >ntsc dv...did you mean pal or ntsc? basically i mean is ntsc ok? let >me know, and please keep me updated about how the project goes! our >space has been around for 3 years and we'd love to learn about and >learn from other spaces around the world - yours xander

>

The Dirt Palace

> >The Dirt Palace is a feminist live/work collective art space that > >was founded in 2000 in an abandoned library building in Providence > >RI. The 7 members work in a variety of media from lace-making to > >puppetry. Each member has an individual studio, and there are a > >number of media-based collective studios including, a print shop > >with screen printing facilities, an animation stand, a textile room, > >band rehearsal space (6 or the 7 members are drummers), and a > >performance space where the group collectively puts together shows > >about twice a month. The space also features a storefront window > >space that is designed by a different artist every month.

"Fine Dishes for Fine Bitches", Xander Marro

> >Fine Dishes for Fine Bitches - made by Xander Marro 16mm to video.
> >Live Action puppet film. Scarface tries to make a cup of tea, but > >finds that the sink is so full of dishes that she can not even fit > >the kettle in the sink. Oh deary my!!!!
> >
> >