What is United Net-Works?

-United Net-Works is an archive, network and platform for contemporary artists, curators and cultural producers based in Stockholm.

United Net-Works activities involve researching new organisational structures and work methods for increased communication, collaboration and exchange within the sphere of contemporary art & culture.

United Net-Works is committed to supporting and initiating projects and exhibitions that seek to develop new opportunities and collaboration for artists and cultural producers.

United Net-Works shares space with artist owned ID:I gallery in Stockholm. Where we have our office and archive with documentation from over 300 artists, artists groups, curators and cultural producers presented in individual portfolios. There is also a large number of VHS, DVD and sound works, CD-rom presentations and other catalogue materials available for view.

United Net-Works was founded in 2001 by Sofie Sweger, art anthropologist and former co-director of Konstakuten and is run by her together with artist Lena Malm and Marianne Hultman, curator at Norrköping Museum of Art.

Ola Pehrson

NASDAQ vocal index 2003

A vast amount of information in the shape of index graphs is constantly being created at the different stock markets of the world. In the project "NASDAQ vocal index" the graphs of companies listed on the NASDAQ are transformed into music. Computer software converts these graphs to sheets of music, and the scores are presented online on a computer screen, to be read and sung by a member of the choir. Every company has got its own voice and together the choir reflects the current situation on the market.

The voices are reflecting the nerve of primitive economic instinct, online, at the very moment it is being performed in its purest form.

Human choir, computer, video projection
